Mixtapes
LABORATOIRE COMMUN CNRS-DEEZER

MIXTAPES-LAB ONLINE SEMINAR · VOL. 3 · 26/27

TASTE SIDE STORY

SIDE A — OCT → FEB — TASTE, STATUS, FAMILY AND CHANGE

01 Clayton Childress — 14.10.26 AT 17:00 CEST
The omnivore's dilemma:
Are inclusivity and exclusivity actually balanced in high-status tastes?

02 Xiangyu Ma — 04.11.26 AT 11:00 CET
Complex tastes: What they are, and why they matter

03 Khwan Kim — 18.11.26
Prophets without profit:
The unequal fates of past- and future-facing unconventionality in popular music

04 Stephen Vaisey — 16.12.26 DOUBLE SESSION
Cohorts and cultural change

Pierre Gallinari Safar
How tastes take shape over time ?
Musical taste formation and life course transitions from adolescence to adulthood

05 Shyon Baumann — 13.01.27
All art is political: Why America is less disinterested than the U.K.

06 Ea Hoppe Blaabæk — 03.02.27
Like parent, like child:
Stratification and intergenerational transmission of cultural tastes

SIDE B — FEB → JUN — BELIEFS, TIES, POLITICS AND SOME MORE TASTE

07 Omar Lizardo — 24.02.27 AT 17:00 CET
Does good and bad taste exist in the popular imagination?
A comparative analysis of folk beliefs in the U.S. and U.K.

08 Anastasia Menshikova — 17.03.27
Studying cultural shifts in public discourse with computational text analysis

09 Roza Meuleman — 21.04.27
From tastes to ties: How cultural capital shapes social connections

10 Sam Friedman & Aaron Reeves — 12.05.27
Authoritarians prefer a meat carvery:
How politics shapes taste divides in contemporary Britain

11 Raphaël Nowak & Hervé Glevarec — 02.06.27
What is 'liking music'? Sociology of differentiation of preferences and practices

12 Manuel Sebastian Mariani — 23.06.27 DOUBLE SESSION
From micro to macro:
Linking empirical behavioral models to collective dynamics and intervention design

Célestin Zimmerlin
Dynamics of music listening: From individual behavior to song popularity

Webinar sessions start at 15:00 CET (Paris time) unless otherwise stated